BiblioGov. Paperback. Book Condition: New. This item is printed on demand. Paperback. 26 pages. Dimensions: 9.7in. x 7.4in. x 0.1in. Pursuant to a congressional request, GAO reviewed the Department of Defense's (DOD) plans to privatize-in-place the Navy's Louisville, Kentucky, depot maintenance workload, focusing on the: (1) impact on excess depot capacity and operating costs at remaining industrial facilities; (2) cost-effectiveness of this planned privatization-in-place option; and (3) statutory requirements affecting transfers of depot maintenance workloads to the private sector. GAO found that: (1) privatization-in-place is not cost-effective given the excess capacity in the DOD depot maintenance system; (2) the Navy's privatization plan for the Louisville depot will not reduce excess capacity at the remaining depots or in the private sector and may be more costly than transferring the work to other depots; (3) DOD pays for the excess capacity whether it is in the public or private sector; (4) privatizing the facility may not comply with statutory requirements for public-private competitions, since the Navy plans to use noncompetitive procurement procedures; (5) the Navy overstated the cost of transferring the Louisville workload to other depots by at least 66 million and generally assumed that privatization would save 20 percent, which is not...
